Report details city fire needs

By JEFF BROWN

BELLE GLADE — Belle Glade officials should build a second fire station, hire more firefighters and purchase more equipment if they want to provide fire protection adequate for the city's population and geographic size, according to an assistant fire chief from Clearwater.

Roy Goodwin made his recommendations in a report prepared as a result of a survey he made at the request of City Manager W.E. "Tom" Strang. Goodwin suggested the city commission budget $340,000 in the next budget year to build a second fire station in the north east section of the city and hire personnel for it.

"This station should be built with intentions of housing a pumper and living quarters for the assigned firefighters," stated Goodwin in his report.

Goodwin said the station would serve the area north and east of the Hillsboro Canal. He also recommended the city hire nine more firefighters to man the new station.

"This survey reveals that past growth in population and land areas has expanded beyond the capacities for your present fire department to service," stated Goodwin. "Annexation has caused the city boundaries to balloon to distances well beyond the desired response time for fire equipment to reach the fire scene — especially north of the canal and in the vicinity of the airport, the Palm Beach County governmental complex, Belle Glade Housing Authority, radio station, residential subdivisions and the industries located in that area."

"The present fire station appears to be adequate to service the downtown and residential areas now in existence and those areas planned south to state road 80."

The distance of many parts of the city from the fire station has effected the Insurance Services Offices classification survey, stated Goodwin.

That classification affects the fire insurance premiums paid by citizens in the city. Belle Glade is placed in public protection class six, according to Goodwin's report.

The ISO rating gives credit for the percent of the developed area of the city within one and a half miles of a fire engine company and two and a half miles of ladder service company.

"Your fire department is deficient in both of these areas, due to distance of travel and not having any type of high-rise vehicle," stated Goodwin.

A second station in the north-east area of town would bring all of the city within one and a half miles of an engine company.

Goodwin recommended the city spend another $390,000 in the 1984-1985 fiscal year to purchase additional equipment and hire new personnel.

He recommended the city spend $190,000 to purchase a high-rise type vehicle with a 75 foot telescoping boom or 75 foot articulating boom to be stationed in the downtown firehouse.

He also suggested the city hire four more firefighters to man the new vehicle. Three of the four would serve as permanent operators and one would fill in during vacations and sicknesses.

Goodwin said the city should purchase another 1,000 gallon per minute pumper with a 500 gallon water tank at an approximate cost of $95,000.

He suggested the city budget another $25,000 in 1984-1985 to purchase hose and accessories for the high-rise vehicle and new pumper.

"This will equip each of your stations with newer first-line pumps, then use the 1973 mode as your spare and reserve pumper," he said.

Another improvement he suggested was a bi weekly two-hour training session for all volunteer firemen.

"Some type of training should be a daily requirement for the on-duty personnel. It is essential for the firefighter to maintain his skills," said Goodwin.

The lack of training was another factor in the city's ISO rating.

Other factors included:

- The number of engine companies and the hose and equipment carried.
- The department's lack of high-rise type fire trucks.
- Lack of adequate personnel to man more than one engine company, making the department dependent upon volunteer firefighters.

- The city's water supply. Goodwin said the current improvements should be "adequate to meet these demands when they are completed."

"Any major improvements anticipated for the fire department should be done with the idea of receiving a lower class rating, thus reflecting a reduction in the citizen's insurance premiums," stated Goodwin.

Goodwin also suggested the city expand its fire prevention inspection program and look into the possibility of compensation for fighting fires outside the city limits.

"The survey reveals that you also provide fire protection outside the city limits in some areas and receive no financial compensation in return. This is an area that should be looked into as it impacts on your present budget and operational cost," said Goodwin.

"This situation existed in Pinellas County prior to 1969 until some of the cities refused to permit their fire department to respond outside the city limits unless there was a contract with the individual homeowner or business. Some people refused to secure contracts and some lost their homes or businesses to fire. When this happened the pressure was put upon the county for rural fire protection. Consequently, this brought about fire service districts with a tax levied upon the unincorporated property owners for fire protection. The county then contracted with the cities to provide fire protection in a given service district."

Mills objects to HUD regs

PAHOKEE — Randall J. Mills, the executive director with the Pahokee Housing Authority, isn't too pleased with recently adopted regulations that might result in higher rents for authority tenants, and he's trying to help get the new rules changed.

The new regulations were adopted by the United States Congress last year, and as interpreted by the Department of Housing and Urban Development, would eliminate rent ceilings in public housing authorities.

It also increases the rent rate charged by authorities to higher income tenants.

According to Mills, HUD stipulated that under the new regulations, the PHA rent ceiling of $250 per month eliminated.

It also stipulated that the tenants in the higher income brackets would pay a gradually increasing rate until they were paying as much as 30 percent of their income in rent.

Mills said higher income tenants in the Pahokee Housing Authority are only paying up to 25 percent of their yearly income to the authority as rent now, and that amount can be no greater than the $250 ceiling.

Mills said the Pahokee Housing Authority is in violation of the new regulations and succeeded in getting the authority's board of commissioners to

City categorizes buildings

BELLE GLADE — City building officials conducting a two week "windshield" survey of 148 buildings in the blighted southwest section of Belle Glade have tentatively determined that 100 of the buildings are below standards.

Seventeen of the buildings could be beyond repair and are categorized as dilapidated, according to City Building Inspector Barry K. Underwood.

He said 83 of the buildings are categorized as deteriorated and the remaining 48 are determined to be standard.

Standard means the buildings meet code, explained Underwood. Deteriorated buildings have been determined to need extensive repairs and dilapidated are apparently not restorable.

Underwood said he completed the survey last week and that the findings, which became available Monday, June 13, have to be confirmed by Florida Rural Legal Services, Inc., which will be conducting its own survey of the buildings.

The survey area was SW

Fourth and SW Fifth Streets from Avenue A to SW Avenue E, and SW Eighth and SW Tenth Streets from Avenue A to SW Avenue E.

Most of the buildings weren't entered and the survey was conducted by exterior examinations, said Underwood.

The survey was part of the city's efforts to comply with a newly adopted housing and building code and a stipulation reached in settling a law suit.

Underwood said he hopes to start inspecting the defective buildings within a year.

Class of '83 graduates

The class of 1983 has graduated.

Pahokee and Glades Central high schools last Wednesday evening graduated 323 students to become the last area schools to wrap up the school year.

Glades Day and Christian Day schools had previously had their commencement exercises.

At Glades Central in Belle Glade, Zarak Lawson delivered the valedictory address to a class of 215. Elizabeth Thornton was salutatorian.

In Pahokee, David S. Donovan delivered his valedictory address to a class of 108. Jeffrey Pitts was honored as salutatorian.

Resident saves lives

BELLE GLADE — A local youth is credited by law enforcement personnel here with saving the lives of two elderly people whose automobile had entered the Hillsboro Canal about two miles east of Belle Glade on state road 80 Saturday morning.

According to Deputy Robert A. Champion of the Glades sub-station of the Palm Beach County Sheriff's Department, Oscar F. Toledo, 19, of 217 NW Avenue F, pulled the couple out of the canal at about 11 a.m. Saturday. Champion said Toledo's heroic almost certainly saved the life of the driver and probably also saved the passenger in the car.

"I didn't think about it," said Toledo. "I saw that car go in and just did what came naturally."

He added that he had taken a life saving course and learned techniques that helped him in the incident.

Toledo was driving one of three automobiles traveling east on state road 80 Saturday morning when he attempted to pass the two automobiles in front of him.

While he was attempting his pass, Mary Black Brown, 64, of Largo, Florida, steered her automobile in front of him. Toledo apparently hit the brakes and Brown lost control of her vehicle, which traveled along the guard rails for about 50 feet before entering the canal.

Toledo went back to the scene to assist and saw a man, Walter Brown, 76, in the water. Toledo entered the canal and pulled Brown out of the water.

By this time, the canal was submerged and upside down in about 15 feet of water. Toledo went back into the canal and pulled Mrs. Brown out of the car and onto the bank.

"It was a mess," said Toledo of the crash. "I wouldn't wish that on my worst enemy."

Toledo, a graduate of Glades Day School, is the son of Oscar J. and Consuelo Toledo.

Conleys recognized for contributions to Glades area

BELLE GLADE - Cecil and Naomi I. Conley are leaving the Glades with the respect and gratitude of three area municipalities.

They were presented copies of resolutions recognizing their contributions to the area Monday night, June 13 at the Belle Glade City Commission meeting. The Belle Glade, South Bay and Clewiston city commissions passed similar resolutions and Belle Glade Mayor Thomas L. Altman presented them to Cecil Conley.

Naomi Conley couldn't attend the meeting because of a test, said her husband.

Cecil Conley is retiring at the end of this month after serving as the first provost at the Glades campus of the Palm Beach Junior College.

He had been involved with the campus since the college first opened a local branch in 1972.

According to the resolution passed by the Belle Glade city commission Monday night, he also established the network that secured the funds for the construction of the Dolly Hand Cultural Arts Center and is currently working on the development of a physical education program and facility at PBJC's Glades campus.

In 1974 and 1975, he was recognized with the college's Outstanding Educator award. He is also a charter member of the Glades Historical Society and has served as the society's president. He has been president of the Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce and clerk of elections for Belle Glade.

He has been a member of several advisory boards, brotherhoods and civic groups.

Naomi Conley is an original member of the PB-JC Glades campus staff and was clinical psychologist of the 45th Street Community Mental Health Center of Palm Beach County's Glades branch.

She was coordinator of Adult Basic Education of the Palm Beach County School Board and director of cooperative education at Palm Beach Junior College.

She is president of Conley Professional Service and is a past president of the Xi Iota Alpha Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi.

She is also a charter member of the Glades Historical Society and has served as a member and officer of the Belle Glade Municipal Library Board.

Both Cecil and Naomi Conley have been elders of the Everglades Presbyterian Church.

The Conleys are moving to the east coast where Naomi still teaches at PBJC.

Home may become day care center

BELLE GLADE - The Sunset Nursing Home may be taking care of a younger breed of folks sometime soon.

The Belle Glade city commission Monday night, June 13, cleared the way for the nursing home facility located at 200 SW Ninth Street in Belle Glade to be used as a child day-care center or educational and religious facility.

Dudley H. Barnes, the facility's owner, asked the commission for permission to use the building for those purposes. His request was approved by the Planning and Zoning Board, and Monday night the city commission gave its unanimous consent.

The building has been vacant now for about two years. Barnes told the commission, "It's began to get in a run-down condition and become an eye sore to the area," he said. "We think we have taken possibly a liability and turned it into an asset."

Barnes explained that he has had work done on the building, including a paint job. Barnes had to acquire the special use status in order to use the building as a day-care or educational-religious facility.

In other business, the city commission:

- Authorized the firm of Nowlen, Holt, Miner and Kisker to conduct the 1982-1983 fiscal year audit at a price no greater than $19,800.
- Agreed to reduce the admission fee for swimming at Lake Shore Swimming Pool this summer by 50 percent for members of the West Exceptional Child Education Center.

The program for the handicapped children will run from June 18 to July 28, according to a letter from the summer school principal, Earlyne R. Harrell.

• Learned that the validation hearing on the water and sewer revenue refunding bond issues will be July 5 at 2:30 p.m. at the Glades courthouse.

• Scheduled a workshop for Monday, June 27 at 7 p.m. A regular meeting will follow the meeting at 8 p.m.

• Decided to order laminated plaques of resolutions commending state champion high school athletic teams, and present the plaques to the schools.

Opinion

Knowing how to solve it is only half the problem

Now the Belle Glade City Commission has some sort of idea where the weak spots are in its fire department.

Not that it offered any real surprises, but a report released this week indicates the city may be too large for the personnel the Belle Glade Fire Department currently has working for it and the equipment it owns.

The survey and report are the work of an assistant fire chief from Clearwater who has seen that city grow in the past 30 years.

The report recommends the building of a second fire station near the airport sometime in the next fiscal year and the purchasing of more equipment the next year.

We think both are good ideas, but we also recognize the city commissioners may find themselves in the unenviable spot of having good intentions but not enough money to fulfill them.

Over the next two fiscal years, the construction of a new station, the hiring of new personnel and the purchasing of new equipment would cost in the neighborhood of $750,000.

The 1982-1983 budget was about $4.8 million for the city of Belle Glade.

Belle Glade is growing and has to increase the scope of the services it offers to its citizens. However, it also has to find new sources of revenues.

The federal government is cutting the amount it gives to state, county and local governments in the form of grants-in-aid and revenue sharing.

Taxes can only rise so far before irate citizens move out of town or assert themselves at the polls.

We understand this pressure from both sides the commissioners must feel. On one side, they recognize their responsibility to the citizens who demand services for their tax dollars.

On the other side, they have limited resources to fund the services they can supply.

The fire protection issue is just one example.

We hope the commission can come up with the funds necessary to improve this vital service.

AILS DEWING

"AND WHAT NOT"

I guess you people think writing a weekly column is a cinch — something someone just sits down and writes off the top of their head.

Sometimes that's true. But other times we write off the bottom of our shoes, the backs of cereal boxes or gum wrappers we find in the street. Actually, as someone before me has pointed out, there is nothing to writing. You just write down whatever occurs to you. It's the occurring that's the hard part.

What you are seeing here, of course, is the frantic scramble of a columnist hanging head first over the deadline to whom no thing has occurred. Faced with do or die consequences, I am pulling myself up by my own bootstraps which I will use as a lifeline — a feat not matched since someone once hanged himself with his own ankle.

But getting back to the martyrdom of columnists. Where do the ideas for columns come from? A well-organized writer maintains a file box of 3x5-inch index cards on which are written the germs of ideas for columns to be developed. Peering into my idea box this week, I found three germs: "Flea market items: three-legged elephant with halitosis," "For sale: used parachute with slight defects which will not affect the life of the product," and "The girl with cabriolet legs."

"Those certainly are germs," I said to myself, "but I don't seem to be catching anything from them. I wonder what I had in mind or whether I was even in my right mind when I wrote them down."

That, of course, was last Thursday when there were still six days to deadline. To newspaper writers, days before a deadline are the same as light years. If most reporters were astronauts, they'd wait until the countdown before blastoff to begin reading through the instruction manual, while buttoning up their spacesuits and searching for their space sox.

Sorry, there's no column this week

The waning days before a deadline, however, are not wasted. They are spent in quiet contemplation and in seeking inspiration from books, friends, short naps, and the refrigerator. Edgar Allen Poe even found an MS in a bottle, although most reporters would never turn to the bottle for inspiration.

And so by Monday, I was still contemplating. But I was also fingering my worry beads. I have previously noticed that until Sunday I can contemplate without worrying because I am sure the Sunday paper will bloom forth with a truly hot-shot idea. But if the Sunday paper fails me, I'm doing more worrying than contemplating on Monday. By Tuesday I'm no longer fingering my worry beads, I'm eating them.

Last Sunday was a case in point. The only item that nudged my inspiration was an account of a survey by attorneys on whether they prefer the nice guy or the tough guy image. This led to some random thoughts on surveying area reporters on what image they like to project. But the answer was too simple: tough reporters wear trench coats. Everybody knows that. And I don't even know any reporter who wears a trench coat. But I know a lot of reporters who would fall to the floor laughing instead of answering the question. I also know some attorneys who would, too. So I filed the story in my idea box.

And now, here am I at deadline minus 10. It's publish or perish time. Contemplation is out. I just ate my last worry bead, and I'm sorry, folks, but there'll be no column this week.

Council allows problems to hang around and recur

There are some things that just sort of hang around and become nuisances because nobody really wants to do anything about them.

Take the Pahokee City Council for instance.

Tuesday night, June 14, Councilman Ronnie Graydon asked about several items that the council had previously talked about and even taken some action on, but after that initial step, had left lingering in the background until, for some unpleasant reason, they rear their ugly heads again.

Two in particular were the issue of the city manager form of government and the code enforcement board.

Since the election, the new council has done nothing about the issue of whether to change to a city manager form of government.

Prior to the election, the council was discussing a binding referendum to determine if the charter should be changed.

Then it was determined that it was too late to get the issue on the ballot so it was put on the back-burner until after the election.

Well, this is the first time the council discussed the issue since then.

They decided to wait until November, Fine. But heed the advice of your city attorney. If you're going to do this thing, start studying your plans now.

Start studying other charters and deciding what you want in a potential new charter.

Find out when you have to give the information to the supervisor of elections in order to get it on the November ballot in the city.

Don't wait for the last minute.

And about this code enforcement board.

Mayor Duncan Padgett has been asked to bring some recommendations to the council for filling it.

That's a good idea, but why couldn't you do that before?

The council members seem to have a habit of adopting ordinances to help solve a problem but never quite complying or taking the action necessary to comply with those ordinances.

This may give the illusion of progress at the time, but it doesn't actually solve a thing.

We urge them to stay with a problem until they find solutions in the future.

JIM JONES

Boiler Plate

Editors Note: This column originally appeared in May of 1982. It is reprinted here as Jim Jones is away with the U.S. Army Reserve for two weeks of annual training.

Right after World War Two the slow-flowing creek in this country that we call population growth turned into a surging river of protoplasm, otherwise known as the past war baby boom.

The baby boom caused all kinds of problems, such as rock 'n' roll, television, and Tip O'Neil. Well, no generation is perfect and those of us who made our appearance during the boom had little to say about it anyway.

We were just sort of swept along by Howdy Doody and Captain Midnight, Kellogg's corn flakes, and others being washed for little brothers and sisters.

We were happy with our tricycles and pedal cars, dolls, and doll houses.

Only the true prophets among us could look ahead and beguile us back at having been along too soon to enjoy Asteroids and Pac Man. High technology then was a Mickey Mouse watch.

It can be said that if there were no baby boom, the computer might have gone the way of the cotton gin. After all, when there were fewer people, the old ways of counting were adequate.

Those of us who were aware of such things knew from the start that our generation was an aberration.

We were the longest bar on the graph which showed population growth. Weekly Reader told us.

Those baby boomers of the late 1940s and early 1950s are fast approaching their early middle 30s and now have little boomlets of their own.

Thus far, no one has come along (until now) to apply a tag to the boomlets and I'm sure in future years they will be forever grateful for this.

Time marches on and concern is already being expressed about what happens when the boomers get old.

Well essentially, we know that we get older and then there is the other alternative.

There are some who are concerned about the great strain on social services and a growing tax burden.

They say Social Security will be broke. And have you noticed how that once taboo subject, euthanasia, has become fashionable?

One thing certain and that is when the baby boomers reach senior citizen status, mommy and daddy won't be around to help solve the problems.

It'll be squarely up to the baby boomers to straighten out whatever mess we happen to be in at that time.

It's a long way from Howdy Doody to the White House, but we're getting closer.

Editor:

In 1980, the Governor and the Florida Cabinet established a goal for Florida's educational system. That goal was to reach the upper 25 percentile of the states (the top quartile) in educational achievement and in salaries for teachers within the next five years.

The House of Representatives then endorsed the upper quartile goal. Teachers believed their elected representatives meant what they said. Because they believed their leaders, teachers worked long hard hours to help students achieve, and their efforts in the classroom paid off. Student achievement, as measured by test scores, has consistently risen.

However, teachers salaries have not kept pace. Florida's teachers are actually further from the upper quartile (top 12 states) in average teacher salary now than they were when the goal was adopted. In fact, if the appropriations bill now being considered by the Legislature is adopted, teacher salaries will drop into the lower quartile (last 12 states).

Is it right to set a goal, make a commitment, raise expectations, then change the rules of the game? Florida's teachers and other educational employees say "No."

Further, the Governor and Speaker of the House Lee Moffitt have proposed two separate merit pay plans—neither of which addresses the problem. Giving a pittance to 10 percent of the teachers in the state and next to nothing to the other 90 percent can only exacerbate the situation.

Our organizations are composed of dedicated professionals. We have supported major educational reforms during the past few years. We have participated in raising requirements for entering the teaching profession. We have supported inservice training for teachers through the Teacher Education Centers. We have consistently lobbied the legislature and worked with the state Department of Education to improve school facilities, fund better educational programs, and foster excellence in the school system. Most of our efforts in these areas go unreported while the media cries out for us to support something our members do not find acceptable.

Floridians will not be fooled by the political and editorial rhetoric of "merit pay" plans. Money for better educational programs and pay raises for ALL teachers will attract and keep the best teachers in Florida's classrooms. We call upon the Governor, the House, the Senate, and those members of both houses that make up the Conference Committee to take note of the goal THEY established. Once that goal has been reached, we will be happy to consider the concept of creating a Master Teaching program.

Development of Pahokee marina shelved

PAHOKEE - The ball has been thrown to the Pahokee Marina Development Corporation.

If a solution to a state agency's objections to the corporation's plans for developing the Pahokee Marina can be found, corporate representatives must seek it, the Pahokee City Council decided Tuesday night, June 14.

Pahokee City Attorney Michael Stauder told the council that night that he had received a reply to his letter of March 18 asking the Florida Department of Natural Resources if it had any objections to the agreement between the city and the corporation.

Under the agreement, since adopted by the council, the marina would be leased to the corporation for 50 years. The corporation is expected to make improvements at the facility and turn over a share of the gross profits to the city.

Stauder said the letter from officials with the department indicates that they object because the permit the city holds on the facility doesn't permit that type of arrangement.

The council members told Stauder to relay the information to PMDC officials and have them take care of the matter.

Stauder also said the state has sent him a letter indicating it is seeking a fee for any use of the marina in the manner the PMDC lease permits.

He said that matter can rest until the Department of Natural Resources' objections are cleared up, but several council members suggested that the corporation may have to accept an added fee payable to the state.

Stauder told the council he will take both matters to PMDC.

First grade teacher turns in chalk

BELLE GLADE -- After teaching in the same classroom for 15 years, Evelyn Allen turned in her chalk last week.

Wednesday, June 8 was the last day of teaching for Allen. She had been a first grade teacher at Gove Elementary.

She observed the occasion by hosting an outdoor barbeque for her class. The weather proved to be uncooperative for the event, so Allen along with her aide Jill Cum-ingham and 28 students, cooked in the covered hallway.

The group ate hot dogs, beans, potato chips, milk and watermelon. The school provided some of the food.

THE LAST DAY OF SCHOOL--was a special treat for Evelyn Allen's second grade class. Students enjoyed a cook out and watermelon at Gove Elementary.

Retirement banquet held

Willie Mae Adams, a teacher at Glade View Elementary, was hosted to a banquet Tuesday night, June 7, at the Country Club by her staff at Glade View Elem., representatives from community clubs, friends, and family members.

Adams is retiring from the Palm Beach County school system after twenty-two years of service at Belle Glade schools.

Adams began her work in 1961, after earning an education degree from Florida A&M University. She ends her teaching career educating pre-schoolers assigned to the migrant program at Glade View. She previously taught first and second graders at East Lake and Glade View Elementary schools.

She is also active in local civic clubs and organizations and each year she presents a college scholarship to a local graduating senior.

In 1981, Adams was honored by the Palm Beach County Teachers Association with an award for human relations in education. She was nominated by her current principal, M. Walter S. Stephens, for listing in "Outstanding Teachers of America" in 1973.

After her retirement, Adams said she will remain active in local community projects and hopes to find time to travel with her husband, Rev. J.B. Adams, and visit her daughter, Earnestine Williams, also a teacher, in the Brandon area.

Adams' decision to retire was prompted by a doctor's suggestion.

Investigations result in three lottery arrests

BELLE GLADE -- Belle Glade police have arrested three individuals on lottery charges as a result of two investigations.

Two of the arrests were made early Friday evening, June 10.

According to Detective Mike Johnson of the Belle Glade Police Department, a month-long investigation culminated in the arrests of Johnnie B.

Hankerson, 34, and Mae Lois Hankerson, 28, both of 641 SW Avenue C. Johnson said he and Detective Albert Dowdell had been observing the Hanson residence. Dowdell, positioned near the front door, was able to see inside the residence when someone left it. He saw lottery paraphernalia and entered the apartment to make arrests.

Once inside, Mrs. Hankerson attempted to conceal a brown bag that was found to hold about an ounce of cocaine and what is believed to be cut for the drug.

Both the Hankersons were arrested and charged with possession of cocaine, possession of cocaine with intent to sell, aiding in the conducting of a lottery and possession of lottery paraphernalia.

After a search of the residence, the police discovered and confiscated a .44 caliber magnum rifle, a .22 rifle, a .357 revolver and a .38 two-shot pistol.

Police also confiscated various lottery equipment, including a telephone with a bug, detecting device, adding machines and a radio scanner.

Mr. Hankerson was also charged with possession of firearms by a convicted felon and failure to appear on a warrant. He was previously convicted of lottery charges.

The next evening, Dowdell arrested a Belle Glade man on lottery charges after observing him jump a fence and drop a bag.

Dowdell, who said he had been observing the individual for several weeks, retrieved the bag and discovered it contained lottery paraphernalia.

He pursued the individual made the arrests. According to Dowdell, Jack Harper, 59, of 224 SW Eighth Street, was arrested and charged with aiding and conducting a lottery and possession of lottery paraphernalia.

Police discovered lottery receipts and $8,619.75 in the cash in the bag.

They also searched his vehicle and located lottery receipts and $2,974 in cash.

Detective John R. Carney and Detective Albert Dowdell.

Police warn of credit checks on phone

Local residents shouldn't give their credit card numbers over the telephone to individuals calling and claiming to be making credit checks, warn local law enforcement officers.

Ten stolen vehicles recovered in theft ring

BELLE GLADE -- Officers with the Florida Highway Patrol and the Glades substation of the Palm Beach County Sheriff's Department have recovered ten more stolen vehicles in their investigation of stolen vehicle activities in South Florida.

One of the stolen vehicles the officers recovered is a flatbed truck and the other nine are automobiles, according to Detective Steve Haller of the Sheriff's Office.

Seven of the vehicles have been recovered by Detective Paul Copeland and one by Haller. Two have been recovered by Florida Highway Patrol.

Over $100,000 in stolen vehicles have been recovered in recent weeks due to the investigation.

Detective Steve Haller of the Glades sub-station of the Palm Beach County Sheriff's Office said that several individuals have fallen victim to the scam recently.

According to Haller, the caller will claim to be the representative of a national bank that issues the credit cards.

He will ask for the resident's credit card numbers for a credit check. The individual making the call can then use the card number to make purchases. Haller said anyone receiving a call of that type should refuse to give the number over the telephone and ask the individual to send them a letter on bank stationery.

Then the person who received the call should call the bank which issued the card and ask if the individual is working for the bank and making credit checks.

Haller said the police would also appreciate being notified.

Youth dies in bicycle accident

BELLE GLADE -- No charges are pending in the death of a nine-year old boy who was hit by a van while riding his bicycle Saturday, June 11, according to police.

According to Belle Glade Police Detective Jack R. Fulenwider, Joe Lee Oliver of 36 Roosevelt Place in the Okeechobee Project in Belle Glade was crossing to the north side of SW Avenue E at SW Ninth Street on a bicycle when he was struck by a van driven by Clinton A. Griffiths, 33, of 917 SW Avenue C Place.

According to Fulen-wider, Oliver apparently pulled out in front of Griffiths and Griffiths couldn't stop his vehicle in time to avoid striking the youth.

Oliver was dead on arrival at Glades General Hospital.

Griffiths was traveling east at about 30 miles per hour at about 4:15 p.m. when the accident occurred, said Fulenwider.

The accident was investigated by Officer Sam Briefman.

Plane crashes near airport

BELLE GLADE -- A West Palm Beach man crashed his stunt plane near the Belle Glade Airport Sunday morning when he was making an approach to land.

According to Deputy Robert A. Champion of the Glades sub-station of the Palm Beach County Sheriff's Department, Jacob F. Henry, 32, of West Palm Beach was flying his Smith Mini-plane over the Belle Glade area when the incident occurred at about 10 a.m.

Henry had circled the airport and was making an approach to land when his engine stopped and he had to crash the plane in a cane field to the south east of the airport.

Henry wasn't injured and the plane sustained about $4,500 worth of damages.

Oldtimer recalls 1928 Hurricane

BELLE GLADE—Herman Hollis is a 76-year-old man who can spend hours telling you what the Glades were like back in the 1920s.

He says he tells it "like it is, my recollections, not what someone told me, but how I saw it," and he has a vivid memory.

Hollis was in and out of this area from 1926 to 1928 when he moved here permanently from his old home in Fort Lauderdale.

He remembers well the 1928 hurricane that swept through the area September 17, 1928 and took so many lives in the Glades.

"We had rough weather for a month or more before the hurricane hit, a lotta rain and a lotta water. In fact, Saturday, we didn't see sun at all that Saturday and that Sunday, Sunday evening, from 8:30 to 9 o'clock, that's when it began to hit bad, sure enough bad, rough winds and rain," Hollis said.

Hollis was staying at the time in an old camp that was built just three or four hundred yards from where the Belle Glade Bowl is now located. He said there wasn't any bowling alley then, it was all "woods, water, elders, custard apples and willow trees."

Everyone in the camp Hollis lived in survived the '28 hurricane. "It was two long camps, like, and a few tents," he said.

"When it got rough, it took the top off the tents, then they came into the camps where we were living. At the time, I went just across the street to another little old house about three hundred yards."

Hollis said before he could get back across the street, the wind had gotten so severe, he couldn't get back to his house.

"I and another fellow by the name of Pitman, we sat up in an old car. Sitting up in that car, the wind began to just rock it until it just rocked it right down into the ground and it didn't blow it over."

After a while, water began to come into the car and Hollis said they decided to head home. "When I opened the door to get out, I and this fellow, we locked hands together and there was a bridge we had to cross. And we were trying to make it to this bridge."

"But the Lord wouldn't let us go across that bridge," Hollis didn't know until later that a large part of the bridge was no longer there.

"We fell into this little canal and we were locked arms together and when we went down and come up, we were still locked arms together and a wind come and blowed us through the water," he said.

The wind blew them approximately 100 feet.

The two men were blown in front of an old packing shed near a group of shacks. The residents from the shacks had climbed over the walls and into the packing house.

Hollis and Pitman took refuge in the packing house also. That's where they rode out the rest of the storm.

Hollis said he was a "lucky man" because in the clean up that followed, he was a cook at the Fear's Hotel and another hotel. Many survivors helped retrieve the bodies of the storm's victims

"Buses and trucks from West Palm Beach was bringing people from Miami and as far up as Daytona to help. Just compelling them, they just had to come."

"And I was a cook and we cooking for the people in the Fears Hotel and the other hotel, I forget the name."

Part of the clean-up involved moving buildings back to their original sites. Hollis said the vacant hotel which sits at the northwest corner of state roads 715 and 717 in Chosen floated intact from its site to the railroad tracks.

"How it did it, nobody knows, but it floated across the road and came right down to the railroad tracks. It stopped when it got to the railroad."

"When after a time it dried up, men helped pry it and slide it back to the same spot it was before."

Hollis also said some Indians who had come to the area at about noon the day the storm hit and warned the people to leave the area.

"It was a mystery to me, at that time. When that school was sittin' blossomed and there there (on the site of the) was going to be high loading ramp on SW water."

Fifth Street)...there "But anyway, some was some Indians came people believed them by, walking this way and tried to get out (north). There were Some didn't believe it, about 12 of them. They Didn't make any diff-told the people to leave ference, 'cause the the Everglades, I'm water was already a-looking at them and high, but wasn't done the crew was. Lodge expects visit

Other side of the boat

The older we get the more easily we get in a rut or "set in our ways." We find comfort and security in doing things the same old way.

Perhaps at this time, when the rains have come, we ought to examine our habits and see if a change is not in order. Change can bring a fresh outlook and an uplift to our morale.

After Christ's resurrection He found His disciples fishing and in the same old way. After a night of casting their nets, they had caught nothing.

Jesus said to His tired and discouraged friends, "Cast your net on the right side of the boat and you will find some." They did and were unable to bring the net in because of the catch.

The changing sides of the boat brought success. It seems significant that Jesus commanded them to cast on the right side. There is many times a right side. In this case it was Christ's way which was right.

The lesson is at least two-fold. We ought not to hesitate to change our ways of doing a certain thing, particularly if it is not bringing a result.

The disciples had been directed by Christ sometime before to do the same thing. Again the action had brought success. Listening to Christ can get us on the right track. He is patient and will direct time and time again. The way we have been carrying out Jesus' commission may be unfruitful, not because of the command, but by reason of the way in which we have done it.

Sometimes we get old because we don't grow in our thinking. Our ideas are no longer fresh. An older man was asked how he stayed young. He pointed to a fruit tree and said, "The fruit grows on the new wood, so I try to put on some new wood each year."

Chronological age does not have much to do with a person's outlook. If we talk with people and study with our minds open, we can learn. When we put our minds into free-wheeling we do not grow. It is this writer's opinion that those not learning new ideas and trying new approaches are dead and do not know it.

In seeking to carry out Christ's command to spread the Gospel, or good news, we are to start at home. We need not concentrate on those about us. First of all, they need it and then they are close at hand.

Also, let us remember the Gospel is good news. Last Easter was a joyous occasion and each Sunday and each day can be also. The days can be full of joy if we realize the love-in-action behind Easter and Christmas.

The days can be fuller because we are doing what we are supposed to be doing. We don't have time to worry about what Mrs. So-and-So said last week, or why old Joe trusted us the way he did.

Another way to look at our work is to stake out a new area to work on. The goal may be to help a person to help himself, so that he can love himself and at the same time see God's love through you.

If a person is hungry and no one is concerned over him; if he has been abandoned by family and friends, even if he deserved it - God's love seems very distant.

Confrontation by Christ made it easy for the disciples to change. We can say, "Well, we would change too, if Christ came along." Christ is not present in the same way but is present by our faith. Sometimes our faith does not seem to need Christ, and therefore is not real to us.

The disciples went back to their old way and old rut. They were waiting for direction. The orders were still vague but Christ has come and gives the orders.

Peter was so excited that he jumped off the boat, not waiting to be rowed into shore. Has the excitement of religion, or your belief gone? Maybe you have gotten in a rut.

Check over a few things. Are you going to church out of habit? Do you prepare prayerfully for worship? Do you study the scripture for your Sunday School lesson? Have you invited someone to church? Have you talked to someone close to you about Christ? Have you examined deeply the meaning of Christ in your life?

Perhaps Christianity has become a list of don'ts! On the contrary, it is a true freedom in Christ. No longer shackled by the negative pessimism of the old law, but freed by God's love in Christ.

adopt a resolution establishing a rent ceiling of $250.

The catch is that HUD must approve any authority resolution.

He said he fully expects HUD to reject the resolution, but hopes to buy some time to permit a state organization to have the new regulations changed.

He said he expects the 30 percent rate to be changed by Congress by the end of this year.

"It's my opinion that HUD doesn't have the authority to set rent ceilings for this authority," said Mills, adding the new regulations are designed to help larger, northeast authorities that are losing money. "They've passed regulations that are going to be detrimental to smaller housing authorities in the long run simply to appease the larger housing authorities."

Mills said the higher rates, which are scheduled to be adopted by increments of one percent over five years, could cause the higher income residents out of the authority and into slum housing that's cheaper.

He said forcing out the upper income tenants could spell economic disaster for the smaller authorities.

When you have these energy savers added, we'll subtract part of the cost.

Ceiling Insulation

An Efficient Air Conditioner

An Efficient Water Heater

Solar Film

FPL will actually pay you to conserve electricity four ways:

Our Cooling & Heating Incentive. FPL will pay up to several hundred dollars towards the cost of having an older, inefficient air conditioning system or heat pump replaced with a qualifying high efficiency system.

Our Ceiling Insulation Incentive. FPL will pay up to $300 towards the cost of having ceiling insulation installed.

Our Water Heating Incentive. FPL will pay up to several hundred dollars towards the cost of having an inefficient water heater modified or replaced with a solar water heater, water heating heat pump or heat recovery system.

Our Solar Film Incentive. FPL will pay up to $150 towards the cost of having solar-reflective film installed.

To qualify for the last three incentives, work must first be recommended by an FPL Home Energy Audit.

Will everyone benefit from Watt-Wise incentives?

Yes. These incentives are less costly than the oil necessary to generate the electricity wasted by inefficient homes. Every 600 kilowatt-hours of electricity not used is a barrel of oil no one has to pay for. This also helps us postpone the building of expensive power plants. The less oil we use, and the less new building we have to do, the more we can help hold the line on everyone's electric bill.

For more information on how to qualify or to arrange for a Home Energy Audit, send us the coupon or call the Watt-Wise Line at 1-800-432-6563.

The Watt-Wise Products Program. Another way we're working hard at being the kind of power company you want.

Governor Bob Graham proclaimed June 12-18 as Medical Records Week in Florida.

Cindy Wilsey, Medical Records Director at Glades General, says that "medical records are important to hospitals and to patients." Wilsey explained that medical records are used by physicians and nurses to evaluate patient care.

She said that information obtained from medical records is used to inform public health officials and the community of health conditions and disease trends. "It is because of this valuable documentation and reporting that effective public health programs are formulated."

By law, hospitals are required to keep medical records on all patients. At Glades General, records are kept indefinitely. Wilsey said that such data is used for accurate diagnosis and treatment of present or future illnesses of a patient. Records are kept current for three years and then placed on microfilm said Wilsey. Last year, the hospital installed a new Bell & Howell microfilm system. Wilsey said that the system is cost effective in that it reduced the number of personnel required and it cut the microfilming time in half.

In observance of Medical Records Week, Glades General Hospital's Medical Records Department had open house Monday, June 14, from 1:30 to 3:30. Wilsey said that all of the medical records personnel at Glades General are well trained and are conscientious employees. Anyone interested in touring the department should stop by the department located on the first floor.

Other employees who work in the Medical Records Department are Wilma Royals, Accredited Record Technician, Mary Beebe, Transcriber, Anita Pursley, Microfilmer and Patricia Canty and Michelle Yancey both Record Room Clerks.

Hospital Assistant Administrator Catherine Williams says that all of the Medical Records personnel were presented corsages for their outstanding service to the hospital. "It is because of our medical record staff's hard work and accuracy that Glades General has maintained a efficient Medical Records Department."
